KNIGHTS OF MALTA AT COLUMBIA

Grand Court of Foresters in Session at Lancaster, and the Knights of the Golden Eagle Are in Lebanon.

WOODMEN MEET IN COLUMBUS, O.

LANCASTER, Pa., May 15.—The grand commandery, Knights of Malta, of Pennsylvania, met in annual conclave at Columbia Tuesday morning, with a large attendance of delegates. The most important business to come before the body are the proposed amendments to the constitution and the election of officers.

Tuesday afternoon's session was devoted to hearing the reports. Grand Commander Leibensberger, of Hazleton, reported a new commandery instituted at Carbondale, two commanderies consolidated and five commanderies now being organized. He made a strong plea for the establishment of a Knights of Malta hospital. For this object there is at present a fund of $671.73.

The report of Grand Recorder Pierce showed the membership on March 1 last was 15,585. Receipts of grand commandery amounted to $109,609.56; disbursements, $75,642.01. The investments, including paraphernalia and cash on hand, amounts to $270,473.19. There are 1,676 past commanders in good standing. The average membership of the commanderies of the state is 140.

Tuesday evening a reception was held.

KNIGHTS OF THE GOLDEN EAGLE.

LEBANON, Pa., May 15.—The grand castle of the Knights of the Golden Eagle met here Tuesday, and after a brief session, devoted to preliminary matters, adjourned for the parade, to meet this morning. The line was in two divisions, and contained about 1,500 men. Commanderies from all sections of the state were represented. The line was reviewed by supreme chief, S. H. Harlan, of Indiana; lieutenant general, H. P. Reineke, of Philadelphia; grand chief, John C. Shepperd, of Philadelphia, and the chief marshal, J. W. Shindel, of Lebanon.

The ladies' grand temple an auxilliary organization, met yesterday with 350 delegates present, representing 1,000 members. There were about 400 visitors from all parts of the state.

LANCASTER, Pa., May 15.—The ninth annual convention of the grand court o Penna., Order of Foresters, was called to order with 300 delegates present. An address of welcome was made by Mayor Muhlenberg, to which Deputy Supreme Ranger C. M. Baker, of Philadelphia, responded. The only business transacted was the appointments of committees on contests and credentials. Tuesday afternoon's session was devoted to the report of the committee on credentials. The committee not being ready to report, the session adjourned until evening, and the convention last night was occupied with business.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD.

COLUMBUS, O., May 15.—The fourth biennial session of the sovereign camp, Woodmen of the World, convened here yesterday with Sovereign Commander Root, of Omaha, presiding. Delegates representing 21 states were present. The session will continue one week. Reports of officers and standing committees occupied to-day's session.

State College Looses in Debate.

The debate between Franklin and Marshall college and the Penna. State College occurred in Lancaster Tuesday evening. The representatives of Franklin and Marshall were F. B. Gernerd, H. E. Harbe, and J. A. Eyler, Those of State College were F. H. Taylor, W. H. Landis and D. B. Tuholski. The judges were Clinton Rogers Woodruff, Philadelphia; Prof. Wm. M. Alden, University of Penna., and Dr. E. T. Jeffers, York. The subject debated was

"Resolved, That the United States Senators should be elected by the direct vote of the people." The judges awarded the contest to Franklin and Marshall in the negative.

Stolen Gold Recovered.

The three bars of gold, valued at $22,750, which were missing from the specie room of the steamship Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse when she arrived at Cherbourg on her trip from New York, have been found behind a cornice in the corridor outside the second class saloon. Whoever took the gold lacked the courage or failed to find an opportunity to carry it ashore.

FAR-REACHING DECISION.

Centre County Court Makes Ruling Affecting All Elective Bodies.

Judge John G. Love, of this county, has made a ruling which will have great bearing on the transactions of all municipal elective bodies. Some time ago the firm of Stancliff & Co., of Philadelphia, brought suit against the School Board of Taylor township, Centre county, to recover on a contract to furnish school supplies for the school district.

The case was tried here in Common Pleas court, and from the evidence it appeared that on the first Monday in June, 1899, the school board which went out of office on that day contracted with Stancliff & Co. to furnish the supplies. The new board, which was sworn into office the same day, refused to recognize the contract or pay for the supplies, and suit was brought to enforce the same.

In the trial of the case here the plaintiffs were compulsorily non-suited, the court making the ruling that no municipal, township or other elective body had any legal right to make contracts on the same day that their successors in office should be sworn in, as the terms of office of the old members expired under the law the day previous.

AIMED TO RESTORE PEACE.

Russia Makes Official Declaration Relative To China.

HAD NO HOSTILE INTENTION

Troops Were Sent to Aid the Chinese Government in Restoring Order No Change in the Political Programme.

IS THE SAME AS IN THE BEGINNING

NEW YORK, May, 14.—According to a special from Washington to the Herald, Russia's efforts to facilitate the negotiations respecting China and to hasten the withdrawal of foreign troops from the Celestial empire, are the subject of an official notes a copy of which has been received in Washington. It contains the first complete official statement of the course of the Russian government that has been made.

The statement of Russia's policy was made simultaneously with her official declaration that, while maintaining the present temporary situation in Manchuria in order to preserve peace, the imperial government is content to calmly await events. It declares virtually that Russia has kept steadily in view the fact that, in sending troops into China, no hostile intent was entertained toward China; on the contrary, their presence was for the purpose of rendering effective aid to the government of China in it struggle against the insurgents.

The note further says that Russia, without separating herself from the common action of the other powers, by reason of her special relations with China as an adjoining country, was obliged to reserve a certain freedom of action and to avoid taking part in engagements opposed to her interests or contrary to her historical conditions. The note says explicitly that, "contrary to the advice of certain powers," Russia declared openly from th beginning that she was not at war with the Chinese empire.

"As to the political programme of Russia," the statement continues, "that is to say, the immediate objects she had in view, they were set forth in the first official declaration made in relation to Chinese affairs, and are stated as follows: The rescue of the Russian representatives at Pekin and the protection of Russian subjects against the criminal attacks of Chinese insurgents; to render assistance to the Chinese government against the insurrection, with a view, as quickly as possible, to re-establish law and order in the empire.

"When all the powers interested had decided to send troops to China for the same purpose, the imperial government proposed, as a rule of conduct in relation to the affairs of China, the fundamental principles: The maintenance of the agreement between the powers; the preservation of the government of China existing abantique; the ellmation of everything that might lead to the partition of the Celestial empire; and, finally, the re-establishment by a joint effort, of the legal central government at Pekin, which of itself could guarantee the peace and order of the country. An agreement was reached upon these points by most of the powers.

Anticipatory of the negotiations, Russia suggested the matters which should be considered, mentioning the advisability of a joint agreement as to the importations of arms, the punishment of the chief promoters of the insurrection and the indemnification of governments, corporations and private individuals who had suffered losses in consequence of the trouble. But, in order not to place China in a position where it may become absolutely impossible for her to meet the pecuniary demands, and in order to attain some practical result, the note said, "Due moderation must be observed in this regard."

—A heavy electrical storm passed over Lock Haven Saturday. The rain continued for several hours, the lightning struck several trees and fences were blown down. Lightning struck the barn owned by G. O. Stiver, one mile west of Mill Hall. The building with a few implements was destroyed. Mr. Stiver and his two sons had been in the barn a few minutes before it was struck. There was no insurance. The incompleted new house of A. E. Cheeseman in Harmon's addition was also struck, but the house did not catch fire. Two dogs that were in the cellar were killed. Lightning also burned out the fuse of the electric lights at the residence of E. H. Young at Lock Haven.

—Texas appears to be the biggest grease spot that ever was.

Scraps of History.

Linn's history of Clinton and Centre counties gives some interesting information regarding the Indian paths which were traveled by the red men in this section over a century ago.

The most traveled path was that from the Great Island, on the northwest side of Muncy mountain and alongside of Bald Eagle creek, near, and on the site in most cases, of the present road.

On the George Gabriel tract in Centre county it is still distinctly visible, the woods being in their pristine condition. It is called in applications, "the Indian or traders' path through the long limestone valley from Bald Eagle's Nest to Frankstown," and is laid down on Scull's map of April 4, 1770.

Another path diverged from the warriors' path through the gap at Mill Hall, and passing up Fishing creek crossed Nittany at Hecla by Logan's gap to the head of Penn's creek, whence it ran westward through the "Manor" and by the end of Nittany mountain.

In reference to the streams, Linn says: Bald Eagle was called by the Delawares Wapalanewach Schiec-hanne, i. e.. the stream of the Bald Eagle's Nest Bald Eagle's Nest, at the confluence of Spring Creek and Bald Eagle, was the residence of a noted Indian Chief. On Scull's map of 1770 it is designated simply as "The Nest." On Lukens' survey of 1769 he marks it with a few huts, about forty rods from the junction of the streams southwestward, designating it as "Bald Eagle's Nest or old town." The creek had its name as early as 1768.

Beech Creek, emptying into Bald Eagle at the present railroad station of that name, was called by the Delawares Schauweminschhanne, that is, Beech Stream. It had its translated name as early as 1768.

Each Received a Penny.

The Rev. W. Emerson Karns, Methodist minister at Jersey Shore, who advertised that he would distribute money to every one attending his church Sunday evening last, kept his promise. The church was packed to the doors. To each person was given an envelope containing one cent. The clergyman preached his sermon on the Parable of Talents, and said he expected every person to whom he had given a penny to invest it and turn in the proceeds on September 1, to help pay the church debt.

Look out for him; as yet no one has received the paper, and no such a paper can be found in the newspaper directory.

TROLLEY CAR ACCIDENTS

One Occurred on Long Island With Fatal Results.

CAR RAN INTO A HEAVY WAGON

Two Persons Killed Outright and a Third Seriously Injured—The Motorman—Was Placed Under Arrest.

CROWDED TROLLEY CAR RUNS AWAY

NEW YORK, May 13.—Of twenty-six young people who started from College Point, L. I., Saturday night on what is known as a "starlight" ride two were carried home dead Sunday morning, five are in a hospital, four were allowed to leave the hospital after having their wounds dressed and every one of the remainder was more or less bruised. A collision with a trolley car caused the accident. The dead are: Michael Schneir, 23 years, and Joseph Pickel, 20 years, both of College Point.

The merry-makers were on their way to a hotel ten miles away where they were to have a dance. They were all in one wagon, the bottom of which had been filled with straw. It was almost midnight when they reached Distloi's hotel on the edge of Jamaica. When in front of the house the driver saw a trolley car approaching. He thought he could cross the tracks in time to avoid a collision, but made a miscalculation. He applied the lash to the horses to no purpose. Pickel and Schneir were the ones occupying the end seats at the rear of the wagon. The car hit the wagon at the rear wheels back of the hubs. The vehicle was demolished, the rear end being broken to pieces. Pickel was hurled into the air and fell thirty feet away. As he descended his head struck a fire hydrant. His skull was crushed in.

Schneier was also thrown into the air. He landed head first on the macadamized pavement. He was unconscious and was carried into the hotel. A few minutes later an ambulance from the Jamaica hospital arrived and started with him as the most seriously injured for that institution. He died before the hospital was reached.

Miss Mattie Devoise sustained contusions of the chest and hips and was the worst hurt among the injured.

The car after breaking the rear end of the wagon pushed it to one side and stopped. The car itself was badly wrecked. The front dashboard and the front platform were demolished. The side of the car nearest the wagon was broken. No one on board of the car was injured, although the twenty-five passengers were more or less shaken up.

The motorman was arrested, though claiming to be without blame in the matter.

NEW YORK, May 13.—An open trolley car, on which were packed about 115 persons, got away from the motorman Sunday near Fort Lee, N. J., and dashed down Leonia hill. Every person on the car was bruised, three were seriously hurt and one of them is likely to die. Frank Sunstruck, the conductor, it is feared, may lose his life on account of possible internal injuries, and J. E. Robinson and his wife, of this city, are the two others who were seriously hurt.

The heavily-loaded car had started down an incline a quarter of a mile in length when the motorman lost control. It was running so fast no one dared to jump off. The road is a winding one. At the foot of the hill it curve sharply.

When the front trucks hit the curve they started around it and made it. The rear ones followed part of the way. The wrench upon the car, however, as it swung about was so great that the body was lifted and torn from the trucks and rolled over. The passengers were caught in and under the car and were piled in a heap.

A Feast.

An old darky who lives in the thickets across the river came to Memphis one day to get his pension check cashed. After receiving his money, which amounted to $11, the old ex-slave sauntered down Front street to a produce house and bought three crates of cabbages. When they were delivered at the wharf late that afternoon the old man was there and received them with a mouth watering in anticipation of the good time ahead.

"Whut yer gwine ter do wid dem cabbages?" inquired the negro drayman who delivered them.

"Eat'em," was the quick response. "I'ze bin free forty years, and dis is de first time I'ze had de money to buy 'nuff cabbage. I'ze gwine ter eat cabbage till I furgit de way ter my mouf."

STRANGE BUT TRUE.

One Becomes Rich, the Other Becomes Ruined.

The bee and the spider visit the same flower, One brings away honey, the other poison. Two boys are given similar opportunities; one will educate himself and make a fortune. The other will turn his advantage into stepping stones to ruin and disgrace. One boy will become rich by means of trifles which others throw away. The scraps of leather, cotton, waste, slag, iron fillings, hoofs and horns of cattle which to one represent only so much rubbish are made by another the nucleus of a fortune. Miners have amassed wealth from the tailings of old abandoned mines, which those who preceded them had discarded as waste. Some boys will pick up an education from odds and ends of time which others recklessly throw away, and will grow rich by practicing small economies others ignore.

Growth of the Grange.

During the past ten years there has been a wide spread revival of interests in the organization of the grange and the outlook is exceedingly promising. Since 1890 the membership has increased not less than 75 per cent. New York at present has 500 subordinate granges with 43,000 members; Pennsylvania 526 granges and 20,000 members; Maine 275 granges with 20,000 members; New Hampshire, 260 granges with 25,000 members; Michigan 450 granges and nearly 25,000 members. These states lead, but the orders are also active and strong in Vermont and Connecticut, Ohio, Massachusetts. Thirty states pay dues to the national grange treasury, and 24 were represented by delegates at the last national grange.

Russia's Great Canal.

The Russian government projects a great maritime canal connecting the Black sea with the Caspian. The production of iron, coal and petroleum, the development of the metal trades and the growth of cotton in Central Asia, are more and more fixing the south as Russia's commercial and industrial center and the increasing glut of traffic is steadily reducing the railway system to paralysis.

The new canal will place Astrakan in direct communication with Taganagrog, on the Sea of Azov. Besides its value for transport, the canal will be of great utility in irrigation. The cost will be 40,000,000 roubles.

Down on His Luck.

Signor Plato Slimhouse, the eminent tragedian, was temporarily out of a job and was touring the provinces, mostly on foot.

"You have no baggage," said the landlord of the village hotel. "You have to pay in advance."

"Sir," replied the gifted actor, scowling darkly, "I never travel without baggage."

And he handed over his toothbrush and strode into the dining room.—Ex.

PANIC IN WALL STREET

Northern Pacific Takes a Sudden Slump.

FORTUNES MADE AND LOST

Former President Cleveland Said to be Among Those Who Profited Handsomely.

BIGGEST BREAK SINCE 1893

NEW YORK, May 9.—The long predicted panic in the stock market came in Wall street yesterday, and like all other panics it found market operators so completely unprepared that prices fairly melted away in the wild scramble of holders of stock to "stand from under."

The break started shortly before 1 o'clock, and when the market closed some two hours later quotations had slumped in the interval anywhere from one to twenty points. Many fortunes that had been made in the last six months by men who never before had a dollar, and who, encouraged by their successes in the phenomenal market since Mr. McKinley's election had "pyramided" their accounts, were in some cases wholly wiped out as a result of the crash, and in others so considerably reduced that little remains. Even some of the so-called "big" men have been badly hit, and there was talk also of serious trouble on the part of some brokerage houses.

So threatening indeed is the situation that conferences of important bankers and banking interests were held last night to discuss the matter and to consider ways and means to prevent a far-reaching financial catastrophe.

The break itself came as out of a clear sky. All speculative eyes on the street had on the early dealings been centered upon a further phenomenal rise in Northern Pacific common stock, which, the "corner" in it still operating, had jumped by leaps and bounds to 180, as compared with Tuesday's close of 143½—a gain of 70 full points in three days—had then reacted to 145, only again to advance from that figure a dozen points or more, with $200 bid for it after the close of the market and $70 a share paid for the use of it over night by the shorts.

Of a sudden, Burlington stock, which had been more or less heavy all the morning, began to show unmistakable signs of weakness, while almost coincidently the Erie issues were depressed. The rank and file watched and wondered and as they watched the prices of the issues went lower still. Then, in the general list, prices also began to fall. First it was St. Paul, then it was Missouri Pacific, and then it was Union Pacific.

Finally the whole market was declining. Some holders of stocks, now knowing the why and the wherefore of it, and thinking it only one of the many ordinary reactions that have from time to time appeared in the market since election, "sat" on their stocks and looked for a recovery. Other holders, more timid, proceeded, however, to part with their holdings. Soon the contagion spread, the professional bears on the floor of the exchange the while aiding in this by hammering the list. Quotations thereupon began to break, not quarter or half points between sales, but one and two points.

That settled it. The entire street proceeded to sell. Where before the cry had been only "buy, buy, buy," it became "sell, sell, sell." Stocks were literally tumbled out, sold without rhyme or without reason; anything "to get out," and so it was that every prominent stock in the list broke badly, with the one conspicuous exception of Northern Pacific, which had its head so well above the storm that at the close of the day it showed a net advance of 16 points.

In contrast, St. Paul sold down from the high figure 20 points and closed with a net loss of 15½. Union Pacific from its high figure dropped 17½ points and closed for a net loss of 9¾ points. Missouri Pacific broke 14½ points, closing with a net decline of 8¼. Amalgamated Copper broke over 12 points, sugar 7, Atchison 8, United States steel 7, and the preferred 12, Pullman Palace Car on one sale of 100 shares 11¼ and many other conspicuous stocks from 3 to 5 points.

Nature "makes all things beautiful in their time." Every one of life's seasons, when life moves on Nature's lines, has its own charm and beauty. Many women dread that period when they must experience change of life. They fear that face and form may suffer by the change, and that they may fail to please those whom they love. The value of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription in this crisis of woman's life lies in the fact that it assists nature. Its use preserves the balance and buoyancy of the mind and sustains the physical powers. Many women have expressed their gratitude for the help and comfort given by Favorite Prescription" in this trying period. Its benefits are not passing but permanent and conduce to mental happiness as well as physical strength.

A Triumph of Photography.

Of course it was a Missourian, one of the "you've got to show me" type, who remarked to a companion as they examined with awestruck interest a picture in which there was seen the faces of all the Presidents of the United States. "Say, Bill, how in thunder did the photograph man ever get them men all together at once?"—Kansas City Journal.

Suspected Something.

From the Chicago Tribune.

The postman had brought a letter addressed in a singularly cramped hand to "George Ferguson, Esq."

"I wonder," mused Mrs. Ferguson, closely inspecting the penmanship, "who that can be from."

If she had suspected that the incident would find its way into print, she would have said "whom," of course, but the other way was easier to say, and besides, the language is changing.

"I never object to George's opening my letters," she continued, "and I think I'll open this. It may be family business anyhow, or it may be something that ought to be attended to right away."

The envelope was loosely sealed. It yielded readily to the ... operation of a darning needle under the flap, and in another moment she had opened it and was perusing the contents.

"My dear Ferguson," the letter began, "if you will meet me at my office tomorrow morning we will confer about that matter we were discussing yesterday and will come to some conclusion. In the meantime I may tell you in confidence that Ruggles will not come into the scheme at all. We shall have to carry it through ourselves. I may as well caution you in addition that whatever you write to me about it should be addressed to me at my office instead of my house, as my wife, though an excellent woman in every other way, has a habit of opening my letters, and I don't want her to know anything about it till we have all our plans perfected. Your wife, you tell me, never opens any letters addressed to you. Such a woman is indeed a jewel, and I do not wonder you are proud of her."

"H'm!" soliloquized Mrs. Ferguson in much perplexity "How can I look George in the face after such a—such a—I do believe it's a decoy letter after all."

Then, with a firmly compressed lip, she carefully sealed it up again and sat down to think about it.

The First Elephant Shows.

The first elephant brought to this country from India landed in 1796 which was shortly after the Jay treaty permitted trade with that country. Previous to that time American ships were excluded from the India trade. Many years ago elephants were taken through this section of the country and exhibited in barns. When the big elephants were taken along the roads from place to place, they were kept closely covered with canvas. On one occasion an elephant was on exhibition at Liberty, Clinton county, now called Island. The show was given in a log barn. During the night the elephant broke out and entering several gardens, feasted on cabbage and other vegetables until daylight when the keeper put in an appearance, captured the elephant and paid the bills for the damage to the gardens.

Sentence was Suspended.

Guy Z. Wise, the young post-office clerk who was arrested last winter on the charge of robbing the mails at Altoona, was arraigned for trial in the United States court at Pittsburg Wednesday. He admitted his guilt and plead for mercy. Judge Buffington suspended sentence. Wise is now employed in Pittsburg in one of the numerous manufacturing establishments.

MORE TRUST PRICES.

Hoggish Coal Combination Will Make the Consumer Pay.

The price of coal will go up at least twenty-five per cent. before fall. Such is the information that has reached some of the coal dealers. It is the intention of the coal companies and wholesale dealers to advance coal at the rate of at least ten cents a ton each month during the summer.

As a climax a jump of fifty cents a ton is to be made about the first of November.

As a result pea coal which is now selling at $4 per ton will retail at $5. Proportionate prices and increases will prevail in other sizes of coal.

It is stated that a Williamsport coal dealer, who recently placed an order for $8,000 worth of coal to be delivered during the present month, has been informed that the order will not be filled owing to the expected rise in prices.

Boys Given Good Advice.

Chas. M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel Corporation, talked for 20 minutes Thursday night to 300 poor boys of the East Side, students in St. George's evening trades school, New York The occasion was the commencement exercises of school.

Mr. Schwab said among other things: "From my long experience I am led to believe that many boys make the mistake of depending upon influence to obtain for them positions of profit. This is a serious drawback to any boy, for even if he has the talents necessary to advance his competitors will say that his success was due, not to merit, but to influence. Go yourself to seek work in life and depend upon your own exertions and merits. Merit must count and merit must win. The boy who depends upon influence is handicapped sadly from the start.

Meeting of Huntingdon Presbytery.

Huntingdon Presbytery met in adjourned session at the First Presbyterian church, Tyrone, Wednesday at 2 p. m., and by action the pastoral relation between Rev. H. H. Henry and the Birmingham and Warriorsmark Presbyterian churches was dissolved, a number of addresses being made by several of the ministers present. Rev. Mr. McDonald, of Houtzdale, was appointed to preach in the Birmingham church May 19, and declare the pulpit vacant. Rev. R. L. Adams to fill the same pulpit June 2. Rev. Albert J. Weisley was named as moderator for the Birmingham church session during the time the church may be without a pastor. The session was presided over by the Presbytery Moderator, Rev. Albert J. Weisley. Rev. J. W. Bain, D. D., of Altoona, made the closing prayer.

Wreck in Sugar Valley.

Early Thursday morning a wreck occurred on the Vinton narrow gauge railroad at the east end of Sugar Valley. The particulars of the accident in the Journal are as follows: The engine attached to 3 trucks, loaded with prop timber running down a heavy grade jumped the track at a curve and landed on its side in the rocky brook below. Arch Beck, the engineer, Alex Lehman, foreman of the axe crew, and John Taylor, the brakeman, saw danger ahead and jumped off in time to save their lives. The trucks were smashed to pieces and the engine badly crippled.

A Name Twice Made Famous, Now a Shining Mark for Imitators.

The name "Chase," twice made famous, is a shining mark for the unscrupulous to pounce upon and appropriate in order to foist upon the public their worthless preparations. These birds of prey, by using the name Chase, expect the public to be fooled into believing they are the medicines of Dr. A. W. Chase, who first became noted as the author of the world-famed Dr. Chase's recipe book and family physician, and whose fame is now doubly increased by the wonderful success of his Nerve Pills, with Nerve, Brain and Blood troubles. They play upon the name Chase, but dare not use the initials "A. W."

They imitate, but dare not counterfeit the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, which identifies the Nerve Pills now recognized as infallible for building up pale weak, thin-blooded, nerve exhausted sufferers,

Who are nerve-tired and brain-weary.
Who are easily exhausted.
Who are wakeful—cannot sleep.
Who have nervous headache.

They remove the cause of blood impurities, securing refreshing sleep and impart strength.

They build up people who find their strength and vigor waning.

They settle irritated nerves, replace languor and lassitude with energy and animation, Cure Nervous Dyspepsia.

The above is the right kind prepared by the Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y., 50 cents per box. All others are imitations.

KING'S EVIL.

How Ignorance and Superstition go Hand in Hand.

A curious sight might have been seen in England a couple of centuries ago. At Whitehall or some other royal residence a little group of people would shrinkingly await the coming of the king, in order to be "touched for the evil." The specific "evil" was scrofula, and it was the popular belief that scrofula could be cured by the royal touch. Hence the common name for scrofula was King's Evil.

Nowadays we know that scrofula is a disease of the blood and that even were there magic in a kingly touch, no external treatment could cure scrofula. The medicine which cures scrofula must deal with the blood. It must be able to eradicate and eliminate the poisons which corrupt the blood and breed and feed disease. When the blood is cleansed, the pimples, blotches, boils and other eruptions disappear, ulcers and sores are healed and the flesh becomes sound and healthy.

THE RIGHT WAY

to cleanse the blood from scrofula is to choose that remedy which has cured thousands of people who suffered from scrofula in its most grevious forms.

"I am using a good many of your medicines in my practice," writes Dr. Joseph Fike, of Lost Springs, Marion Co., Kansas. "Ten years ago there was an emigration from Rusland to this country and there was a lady in the company who was badly affected with that dreadful disease, scrofula. Her mouth and throat were in an awful condition, and there were lumps on the outside, below the jaws, the size of a hen's egg. Other doctors had been called and they said it was a fatal case. I felt confident that none of my remedies would benefit her any. It came to my mind that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was recommended for such cases, so I went to the drug store and bought one bottle and gave it to her to use as directed. Five bottles cured her and she is well to-day. She is married now and has three healthy children."

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery judged solely by the cures it has effected is without doubt the most powerful and most perfect blood purifying medicine of the century. It is a radical remedy. It goes to the root of the disease. Some preparations containing mineral poisons such as mercury are offered as cures for scrofula. These medicines only suppress the symptoms of disease for a while and give the skin a look of clearness, but after a time the suppressed disease like a smothered fire breaks out with a new violence.

It is the uniform testimony of those who have been cured of scrofulous diseases by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery," that the cure is permanent. In many instances the testimonial to the cure has not been offered until the lapse of several years proved how thoroughly and lastingly the medicine had done its work.

No class of people are more grateful for the blood purifying power of the "Discovery" than women whose faces have been marked and marred by pimples and other eruptions. The smooth skin and clear complexion which come back when "Golden Medical Discovery" has swept the blood clean of its corrupting poisons, are a source of unfeigned delight to those who for years have had their beauty marred by some form of eruptive disease. Beauty begins in the blood, and the first step to beauty is to cleanse the blood of the corrupting impurities which weaken the body and befoul the flesh.

THE SCOURGE OF CIVILIZATION.

From half civilized or unsanitary countries come the plagues which decimate the teeming populations of the Orient. Sanitary science and medical skill have banished the plagues from among ourselves, but civilization has its own scourge in that form of scrofula which attacks the lungs and is popularly known as consumption.

Plagues are not persistent. They appear and disappear again for years. Scrofula of the lungs or consumption is a persistent disease. Every day of every year it gathers in its victims; one-sixth of all deaths from disease being attributed to consumption. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures scrofula wherever it finds it. It eliminates the scrofulous poison from the blood and so the organs which are fed by blood are relieved from the scrofulous poisons which destroy them. Obstinate, deep-seated coughs, bronchitis, bleeding of the lungs and similar dangerous forms of disease are perfectly and permanently cured by "Golden Medical Discovery."

"Dr. Pierce's medicine has not only benefited me greatly but it has done wonders for my two sons," writes Mrs. M. Hartrick, of Demster, Oswego Co., N. Y. "Both had scrofula. I have lost two daughters in less than five years with consumption and scrofula. My eldest son was taken two or three years ago with hemorrhage from the lungs. It troubled him for over a year. He took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and has not had a hemorrhage in over a year. My younger son had scrofulous sores on his neck; had two lanced, but has not had any since he commenced to take your medicine."

ABSOLUTELY RELIABLE.

"Golden Medical Discovery" can be absolutely relied on as a safe and sure medicine for diseases caused by a scrofulous condition of the blood. It cures disease of skin and scalp, eczema, saltrheum, tetter, scrofulous sores and swellings, as well as scrofula of the lungs and other diseases having their origin in a corrupt condition of the blood.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is no other medicine "just as good" for the cure of scrofulous diseases.

Victoria Cross for Young Texan.

Much interest has been aroused in the city by the knowledge of the fact that a young southerner, prominently connected in Richmond, has been decorated with the Victoria cross. So far as is known this is the first American so honored.

The gallant young trooper is Vandyke Todd, of Jefferson, Texas. His father is Captain George T. Todd, a nephew of Mrs. John B. Cary, of this city, who made a fine record for himself in the First Texas regiment during the civil war. His son, Vandyke Todd, was for two years a naval cadet at Annapolis and later took up the study of law. He went to South Africa in December, 1899, and joined squadron D of Roberts' Horse. It was in the fight for the last convoy at Sanna's Post that the young southerner won his decoration. He volunteered to bring in stray horses for the gunners. This he did, and went back again, under a continued fire, to search for a surgeon, whom he failed to find, but he brought in the only wounded man he met.—Richmond Times.

—The citizens of Williamsport have put up a $215,000 guaranty fund, and it is expected to wield great influence in the securing of industrial concerns for the town. Subscriptions to the guaranty fund range from $500 to $5,000 and the manner of its disposal is placed in the hands of an executive committee and a board of trustees.

—Representative Coray, of Luzerne county, in a speech Friday in the House against adjournment being taken until next Wednesday afternoon, said that collectively the members of the House were a lot of asses to permit themselves to be used as pawns by politicians for political purposes.

The Great Scourge

of modern times is consumption. Many cures and discoveries from time to time are published but Foley's Honey and Tar does truthfully claim to cure all cases in the early stages and always affords comfort and relief in the very worst cases. Take no substitutes. All Druggists.

A Belt of Babies.

It will probably startle a good many persons on the authority of a well-known statistician, that, could the infants of a year be ranged in a line, in cradles, the cradles would extend round the globe. The same writer looks at the matter in a more picturesque light. He imagines the babies being carried past a given point in their mothers' arms, one by one, and the procession being kept up night and day until the last hour in the twelfth month had passed by. A sufficient liberal rate is allowed, but even in the going past at the rate of twenty a minute, 1,200 an hour, during the entire year, the reviewer at his post would only have seen a sixth part of the infantile host. In other words, the babe that had to be carried when the tramp began would be able to walk when but a mere fraction of its comrades had reached the reviewer's post, and when the year's supply of babies was drawing to a close there would be a rear guard, not of infants, but of romping 10-year-old boys and girls.—Medical Councellor.

Sold by all druggists in all parts of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" and take no other kind.

—The case against John Howard, of Osceola, the mine boss who several weeks ago struck a Hungarian with a shovel at McCartney, and which blow unfortunately proved fatal, is now on trial at Clearfield. The charge against him is murder, but it is believed by many that he will be acquitted, as the killing was not intentional and said to be in self-defence.

SUPPRESSED BY POLICE

Copies of "The Irish People" Seized in Several Cities.

CONTAINED ATTACKS ON THE KING

The Matter Was Taken Up in the House of Commons and Led to a Somewhat Acrimonious Debate Among Members.

WHAT LONDON NEWSPAPERS SAY

DUBLIN, May 11.—The police of Cork, Limerick and other towns of Ireland seized all the copies of William O'Brien's weekly paper, "The Irish People," found at the news dealers yesterday. The offending articles, it now appears, were abusive attacks on King Edward, Cardinal Vaughan and the address to the king, which, the paper declares, was as much as might have been pointed to a Legree a century ago. The article finds consolation in the fact that the presentees were English Catholics, "who are repudiated by the only really Catholic nation now in existence. The loyalists represented England only and if the English Catholics choose to acknowledge themselves superstitious Bolators, it is no fault of ours."

LONDON, May 11.—At the conclusion of the question in the house of commons yesterday, John Dillion (nationalist) moved the adjournment of the house to call attention to the seizure of The Irish People.

Mr. Dillon complained that the action of the authorities was grossly illegal and asked whether it was due to the attack on Mr. Wyndham, the chief secretary for Ireland, or to the attack on the king.

Mr. Wyndham replied that it was owing to the attack on the king. Continuing, Mr. Dillon said he was not concerned to defend the violence of the attack, but any seizure should have been done through the courts. Far more violent attacks on Queen Victoria had been made in the English papers without their being seized. The political action was a blow at the liberty of the press.

William Redmond, nationalist, seconded the motion, characterizing the article complained of as a very proper and patriotic attack on the conduct of the chief secretary.

Mr. Wyndham, in defending the seizure, declined to "soil his lips with reading the attack on the king, which constituted seditious libel, nor would he wound the feelings of millions by propagating the outrageous, gross and scurrilous lies of the article."

The motion for an adjournment was defeated by a vote of 252 to 64.

LONDON, May 11.—The morning papers are unanimous in denouncing the scandalous attack of The Irish People upon the king, but serious doubts are raised as to the wisdom of Mr. Wyndham's action in seizing the paper: First, because the seizure was illegal, it being a case for prosecution; and, second, because to the delight of the Irish members it gives world-wide publicity to Mr. O'Brien's hitherto little known paper and will, the nationalists claim, be worth thousands of dollars to them from American sympathizers. Many friends of the government consider it would have been better had Mr. Wyndham ignored the matter.

Eyes and Nose ran Water.

—C. G. Archer, of Brewer, Maine, says: "I have had Catarrh for several years. Water would run from my eyes and nose for days at a time. About four months ago I was induced to try Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, and since using the wonderful remedy I have not had an attack. It relieves in ten minutes." 50 cents.—9 Sold by F. Potts Green.

Prospecting for Coal.

Speer G. Burrell, of near Penn Hall, is enthusiastic in the prospects of finding coal. Mr. Burrell has a half interest in the findings, the estate of Samuel Burrell holding the other half. It is the purpose of Mr. Burrell to resort to the "water-smelling" process of finding the coal vein, and if nothing satisfactory can be discovered the drill will be brought into use.

Gregg Burrell, northeast of Spring Mills, is reported as having interested a number of persons who will purchase a drill and prospect on his tract at that point for coal.

Fought For His Life.

"My father and sister both died of Consumption," writes J. T. Weatherwax, of Wyandotte, Mich., "and I was saved from the same frightful fate only by Dr. King's New Discovery. An attack of Pneumonia left an obstinate cough and very severe lung trouble, which an excellent doctor could not help, but a few months' use of this wonderful medicine made me as well as ever and I gained much in weight." Infallible for Coughs, Colds and all Throat and Lung trouble. Trial bottles free. Guaranteed Bottles 50c and $1.00 at. F. Potts Green drug store.

—In response to numerous complaints of damages to fragile articles sent through the mails, the Post-office department has issued a general order warning the public to use more care in preparing articles to stand more rough handling. Postmasters are directed to warn parties mailing insecurely put up packages that the packages are very liable to damage in transit.

A Swindler Works the Town.

Several weeks ago a slick article struck Lewisburg with a neat little scheme and worked it to his heart content, when he changed quarters to pastures new. His mode of operation was simple and his prey the good housewives of the mansion. He was selling table cloths which he claimed were of a superior quality, and as an inducement for a sale offered a dozen fine napkins to match the table cloths. The napkins could not be carried along owing to their weight, but if the purchaser would please pay in advance they would be forwarded at once to them. The bait was an alluring one, and the agent sold a pile of cloths, and got his money. Then he left the town, and a score or more of ladies are still awaiting the arrival of the napkins. The table cloths the agent claimed were worth from $1 to $3 per yard, but it has since been learned that any of the stores in the town would be glad to supply them at 50 cents a yard. The goods is of a very inferior quality and cheap.

London's Growth is Slow.

The census experts in Washington are quite puzzled by the telegrams from London showing a population of only 4,536,034 for the metropolitan district of that city, for this is an increase of only 7 per cent. during the last ten years, against 37 per cent. for New York, 54 per cent. for Chicago, and similar growth for Berlin and other of the world's great cities. The natural increase should be not less than 12 per cent., and all who are familiar with conditions there know that London is being overcrowded by people who prefer mechanical to agricultural employment. The great danger in England, and the same in Germany, is the desertion of the farms for the lighter labor, shorter hours, better wages and greater attractions of city life. It was expected that the London census would develop an extraordinary increase in population for those reasons.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Not Abandoned.

Quite a number of papers throughout the State have been publishing a story that Williams' Grove, the famous picnic resort, may be abandoned, owing to a recent fire having burned out several of the buildings. There is absolutely no truth whatever in the rumor. There were but three buildings of any size burned, and these will all be replaced on a much larger scale. Work has been commenced and the Grove will be ready to receive visitors by June 10th. The Great Granger's Picnic is not looking for new grounds but will be held at the same old spot, Williams' Grove, August 26 to 31, 1901.—From the Daily Journal, Mechanicsburg, Pa., May 7.

—The old Swan hotel, corner South Centre and Pine streets, Philipsburg, which was re-opened April 1st, by Mr. Enoch Hugg, formerly of Milesburg but a resident of Philipsburg since November last, has been re-christened the Farmer's Hotel. Mr. Hugg is an experienced man in the business and will keep a first class house. A new two story annex, 22x30, is now being built by contractor, J. Miles Dunlap. The three rooms on the first floor will accommodate the bar and sample rooms.

—It is said that Congressman M. E. Olmsted of Harrisburg had 100 shares of Northern Pacific and tried hard to sell them when the stock was up around the $1,000 mark. THE census frauds in Maryland have been run down. The padding amounted to about 2,000 names and the men responsible for the fraud are under indictment. No party can be altogether free from rascals, but the Republican party has certainly made an enviable record for punishing such when caught.

THE United States is spending a million dollars a week for coffee and does not grow a single pound. Yet the Agricultural Department says that many sections of the south are fitted for raising the berries. Here is a chance for an enterprising genius like J. Pierpont Morgan for instance to work up a good thing in domestic coffee growing.

EVEN if the United States Supreme Court decides against the Administration on the question of its right to collect duties in Porto Rico on United States goods, no harm will be done. The United States tariff will still stand against the products of the colonies as well as against the rest of the world, and that, after all, is the important point.

TO RAISE OUR OWN COFFEE.

Among the recent gratifying official statements made with reference to future development of the resources of our island possessions is the intimation that America's enormous coffee bill will be materially cut down by the cultivation on home soil of this useful little bean. That Americans are extravagant coffee drinkers is demonstrated in the bill for this commodity for the first nine months of the current fiscal year. We have paid since July 1 last $45,218,110 for coffee. This money bought us 617,343,868 pounds of coffee. Of this quantity 505,581,576 pounds were imported from Brazil, while the rest we received from the other South American countries and the Indies. A recent investigation by treasury statisticians at Washington into the coffee producing capacity of Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines arouses the hope that hereafter the United States may obtain their principal supply of coffee from home sources. When it is considered that we are spending nearly a million dollars a week for this important article of commerce the significance of the disclosures made by the treasury report may be easily appreciated. If this vast trade could be turned over to our island possessions not only would there be an immense saving in the nation's annual coffee bill, but the employment given to workers on coffee plantations in Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippine islands would bring great prosperity to the inhabitants of these countries. The Brazilian coffee is the most popular in the United States, and its cheapness and accessibility would make it a strong rival for the home produced article. But this government can hardly afford to let so excellent an opportunity go by for the development of the resources of its island possessions and the establishment of industrial prosperity and goodwill among the peoples over whom we are to have henceforth a supervisory care.

ONLY SO THE SALARY COMES OUR WAY.

And still John Hamilton's appointment as Secretary of Agriculture has not been submitted for senatorial ayes and nays. It is extremely unfortunate for a public official to have an official record of a character that is regarded as an obstacle in the way of his appointment receiving the concurrence of the Senate as the law prescribes. Mr. Hamilton is not alone in his unprecedented plight, however, as Frank Reeder, the much famed banking commissioner, Larry Eyre, the superintendent of public buildings and grounds, and perhaps one or two other bright and shining stars in Governor Stone's official family, are holding down responsible and lucrative jobs under the same peculiar and embarrassing circumstances. It is not likely, though, that any one of them feels cut up about it. They are machine politicians and favorites and are hide-proof against public criticism.

IT is said Judge Love "don't like President McKinley no more" and that his opinion of his "old school chum" would make very interesting reading. The time was, and not long ago, when His Honor spoke with pride of his personal acquaintance with the President and referred with pleasure to innumerable incidents of their school days, but that was before the President appointed Judge Archbald to the new Federal court bench. Things are different now. The Judge is said to have said that McKinley is ——. We will leave it to you to imagine what he is said to have said.

THE "Commoner" says that the Democratic party shall not reorganize on any other plan than that by which the lady and the tiger composed their differences: "They came from their ride, with the lady inside, and the smile on the face of the tiger."

THE health of the various justices of the State Supreme court continuing to be of a superior brand, the ambitions of the Centre County court are for the present in a state of gloomy inactivity.

REAL ANTAGONIST OF LINCOLN'S PRINCIPLES.

One of the favorite poses of Mr. Bryan, says the "American Economist," is that of being the follower of Lincoln and the only living exponent of the principles for which Lincoln stood. A recent and conspicuous instance of Mr. Bryan's utter failure either to represent or understand the position and opinions of the statesman whom he presumes to represent is found in the statement which recently appeared in "The Commoner," and which is to the effect that "every lesson and principle defended by Lincoln is now antagonized by the Republican party."

Mr. Bryan might be repaid if he would give a new perusal to the sayings of Lincoln instead of spending so much time in having his own say about what Lincoln thought or stood for, and in his reperusal let him not overlook Lincoln's views concerning the Republican tariff policy.

Lincoln, in his first speech on the Tariff, professed to have not much knowledge on the subject of political economy—in which it will be noticed that he differed from Bryan—but he went on to say that he knew enough to know that "when an American paid twenty dollars for steel to an English manufacturer, America had the steel and England had the twenty dollars, but when he paid twenty dollars for steel to an American manufacturer, America had both the steel and the twenty dollars."

It appears to be Mr. Bryan, and not the Republican party, who is antagonizing the lessons and principles defended by Lincoln, as set forth by the few but pointed words quoted.

CALIFORNIA'S JOYOUS GREETING.

There is no suspicion of mere political partisanship in this Californian welcome to President McKinley—the man who voted for Bryan—is shouting as loudly as the spellbinder who preached so eloquently of the full dinner pail during the last campaign.

It is the occasion of California's jubilee—our first opportunity to rejoice that the tide of good fortune has set our way and is running to the flood.

President McKinley is welcome—thrice welcome—to this land of sunshine and flowers—a land that has always flowed with milk and honey, but which is now turning the milk into butter for export and sending the honey abroad to sweeten the bread of the people who live in less favored lands overseas.—San Francisco Post.

POLITICAL rumor names Larry B. Eyre, of Chester county, as the probable successor of Frank Reeder, as Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee. When it is considered that the next chairman will be named by the machine and that an improvement over the present head of the Republican organization is not, therefore, to be expected, the selection of Eyre need occasion no surprise.

IT is now said that the Legislature may not adjourn until some time in July. It is tough on Harrisburg, but as it is "an ill wind that blows nobody no good" it may be said that there are various communities throughout the State whose moral tone is improved by the absence of their respective legislative representatives.

WHAT an inspiring picture Horticultural Hall, in Philadelphia, must have presented last night when the "greatest product of American statesmanship" and his $15 per plate hirelings knocked off the neck of the last bottle of champagne. Never before had Bacchus been so royally toasted by his satellites.

PRESIDENT MCKINLEY put the case very aptly when he said that our only imperialism was the imperialism of a sovereign people.

JUST the same there are men who would make worse Presidents than Senator Hanna.

A GREAT BATTLEFIELD.

During the summer and fall months many people of this city and neighborhood visit Gettysburg where there is much of interest to be seen. The work of the Government conducted by the Gettysburg National Military Park Commission has greatly enhanced the value of the field for sight-seeing purposes. Mile after mile of finely constructed avenues make it easy for the visitor to get over the ground and see the five hundred monuments and markers that now tell the story of the great struggle between the North and the South. It has been estimated that, in all, about two millions of dollars have been spent by the National and State governments in marking the field and in making it accessible to visitors. Every State is represented there by some kind of a monument. As the years go by it is not likely that interest will decrease in the field where so many brave men on both sides gave up their lives.

Annually several hundred thousand veterans and tourists visit the field. People from all over the world, after visiting Gettysburg, come to the conclusion that Gettysburg is probably the best marked battlefield in the world. Societies of various kinds holding annual meetings there have found Gettysburg an attractive town, for the battlefield draws many who would not otherwise attend. Pennsylvania, and citizens of the United States at large, have reason to be proud of the manner in which the "High Water Mark of the Rebellion," has been made an object lesson for coming generations of American citizens.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

A MASTERPIECE OF ENGLISH AND DICTION.

Engrossed, framed and hung in one of the halls of Oxford University in England, as a specimen of the purest English and most elegant diction extant, is the following letter from the pen of Abraham Lincoln:

DEAR MADAM: I have been shown in the files of the War Department a statement of the Adjutant General of Massachusetts that you were the mother of five sons who have died gloriously on the battlefield. I feel how weak and fruitless must be any word of mine which should attempt to beguile you from grief of a loss so overwhelming.

But I cannot refrain from tendering to you the consolation that may be found in the thanks of the Republic they died to save. I pray that our Heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement, and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and lost and the solemn pride that must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom.

Very respectfully yours,

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

KANSAS CALLS FOR HELP.

The State of Kansas, according to the Louisville "Courier-Journal," is now advertising that 15,000 young men are needed at $2 a day to help in the harvest and afterwards remain in the country. The wheat crop, which was so good last year—90,000,000 bushels, says commercial estimates—is equally promising this spring, and it is thought the farmers of Kansas will get at least $50,000,000 for this one crop. In view of this the $2-a-day offer is an opportunity at which young men in the city should jump. A fortune is much easier amassed on a western farm than in the crowded cities, and the peace that goes with the life there is worth double the money.

THE PRESIDENTIAL TOUR.

More than one President has "swung around the circle" before now, but it can be said without fear of contradiction that no President ever traveled through so prosperous a country as that which President McKinley is seeing on his present western trip. The sight must be a double gratification to him, for the prosperity which greets him everywhere is the direct result of the adoption, or the re-adoption rather, of the economic policy with which he has been identified throughout his entire political career, and the restoration of which was his first thought after his inauguration as President in 1897.

THE MEN WHO SUCCEED.

The men who succeed in life begin at the bottom. They learn early the value of labor and despise no toil which comes to them in their battle of life. The great majority of men prominent in the world's affairs have climbed the ladder from the bottom rung. Industry, energy, stickability, common-sense and sober, steady habits were their stock in trade. The young man who starts in life with a determination to succeed will succeed. Innumerable examples might be cited in support of this assertion.

President McKinley's cabinet affords several instances. Secretary Hay was a clerk in early life; Secretary Gage began his career as a bank clerk; Secretary Root started out as a school teacher; Postmaster General Smith began life as a printer and worked his way from the case to the editorship of the "Philadelphia Press"; Secretary Long was a farmer boy; Secretary Hitchcock began as a clerk in a small store; Secretary Wilson was a farm hand. Only two members of the cabinet, Hay and Knox, received a college education. President McKinley himself was a poor boy and Senator Hanna, the President's close friend, was a day laborer in his youth. So it goes; columns could be filled with the names of those who began in the humble walks of life and by industry, push and "stickatitivness" reached a place among the world's successful men.

One of the most striking illustrations of what a young man can do if he will is, perhaps, Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel corporation. Not yet forty years of age Mr. Schwab is one of the most conspicuous figures in the business world today. His success is the result of sheer industry and ability, the latter acquired by consistent effort and persistent energy. To the young men of America Mr. Schwab gives the following message: "Work hard; make yourself indispensable, don't be afraid of working overtime; persist; don't mind the hard knocks, you're only getting your share; be loyal to your employer, to everyone; marry early, as early as you can; avoid drink; lead a moral life. The young man who does these things will succeed."

Mr. Schwab is himself an exemplar of his own advice. His counsel, therefore, is indeed such that every young man can afford to heed, for it leads to success and happiness. Improve your time, develop your talents, give your best efforts to your work no matter what its character, avoid evil association, be economical and prudent and yours will be a successful life.

WHY HE VIEWS IT SERENELY.

Starting out on his 10,000-mile tour, President McKinley scented panic in the air. He foreshadowed the Wall street crash before he reached Atlanta and therefore is not likely to be surprised over the reports that reach him at Los Angeles. He will view the battle from afar serenely and unconcerned. Six hundred million dollars in gold in the national treasury makes the New York crash as harmless to the government as the bursting of a bubble.—Omaha Bee.

THE hackneyed old adage that time is money is forcibly exemplified in the organization of a watch trust with a capital of seventy-five million dollars.

THE rule that a horse may be driven to a trough and yet not be made to drink a draught, of course, applies also to draft horses.

THE JOURNEYS OF A MAGAZINE.

From Connecticut to Scotland and Thence to the Shetland Islands.

Probably no other magazines are read by so many people as the copies of "The Ladies' Home Journal" that go to a Connecticut lady. After reading each number she forwards it to a sister in Scotland, where it is read by the household and neighbors, and carefully laid away till the end of the year. The twelve copies are then given to the stewardess of a Shetland Island steamer, who retains them until read by her and all the crew. Then they are left at a remote Shetland Island town, where they serve as a sort of circulating library, passing from house to house for a year or more, until they are literally worn out. In its journeys each magazine finds its way into scores of homes and is eagerly scanned by hundreds of eyes.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, May 13th, 1901.

Secretary Gage declines to say anything for publication concerning the Wall street crash of last week, but it is known that he felt greatly relieved when the disturbance did not extend outside the ranks of the speculators. As a financier of long experience he knows that there is always danger that these speculative orgies may do great damage to the country when the inevitable collapse comes, by unsettling values and shaking confidence throughout business circles. The government has no control of these things, but there are times when the Secretary of the Treasury may do much toward preventing financial trouble of a serious nature. For that reason Secretary Gage kept a close watch on the Wall street speculations. He was prepared to do what he could had the necessity arisen, but is very glad that in this case he was not called on to do anything. He is still buying short time U. S. bonds, whenever they are offered at a price that makes it advantageous for the government to buy, and will continue to do so, because thereby he not only puts the money that is in the treasury back into circulation, but saves interest for the government.

Secretary Root made short work of the official career of a war department official, who offered to sell copies of official correspondence to the Counsel of Neely who is charged with the embezzlement of Cuban postal funds. The offer was made by W. D. Williams, private secretary for Col. Edwards, Chief of the Insular Division of the war department, to Judge Lindsay, of N. Y., who at once reported it to Attorney General Knox. Detectives had no trouble in tracing the offer to Williams, who acknowledged his guilt. Secretary Root at once dismissed him from the government service. He would also have been prosecuted, but inasmuch as the copies he had offered to sell were all recovered and would in any event have been of no value in the case, it was decided that dismissal was sufficient punishment.

Mr. C. M. Schwab, president of the newly founded steel trust, known as the United States Steel company, was one of the most interesting witnesses yet heard by the Industrial Commission. He was a very frank and willing witness, giving all that was asked except a copy of the syndicate agreement, which he said he thought was private matter that he would not care to furnish at this time. He said the new company controlled about 75 per cent of the steel products of the country, and expressed the opinion that the consolidation under one head would be beneficial all around. When asked what effect it would have on prices, he replied: "I think the tendency will be towards somewhat lower prices. I do not think there is a probability of higher prices unless something unforeseen happens. When asked what, if any effect, the talk of the removal of the tariff on steel products, would have on his company, he replied: "Reduce the tariff and the wages of labor will be reduced. Labor forms the largest element. Our greatest exports have been in rails and billets, wherein labor is the least factor comparatively, and not in the lines upon which the most labor is exerted." When asked to state what effect corporate consolidation would have on the chances of men for employment, he said: "Opportunities were never so great before as they are now, for men of brain and energy who are willing to work. There was never so great a scarcity of the special men who are required by manufactories. Men with such exceptional abilities have chances equal to any such men ever had. I doubt, however, if men with small capital have." He said the average wages paid by the Carnegie Co., at Homestead, last year, were $4 a day. The lowest was $1.50, but Mr. Schwab said he was ashamed to tell what the highest was.

Minister Conger is in Washington. He declines to discuss the Chinese question, further than to say that he thinks it will be impossible for China to pay the amount of the indemnity that the representatives of the powers have decided to demand.

While it would be obviously improper for the Department of State to take any notice officially of the constantly repeated reports of efforts being made to form a commercial combination of the great European nations, for the purpose of making war upon American trade, officials of that department say in private conversation, that no such reports would be in circulation, had the Senate ratified the reciprocity treaties negotiated with European nations, as President McKinley, in public messages and in conversation with Senators, repeatedly requested. They add that, in their opinion, it is still possible for the Senate to head off any European commercial combine against us by promptly, at the next session, ratifying such of those treaties as are still alive, particularly that with France.

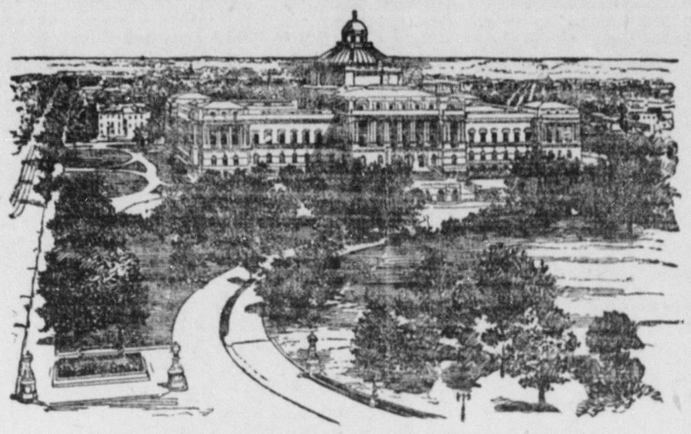
THE ARCHITECT

Of the World's Finest Library Building Recommends Peruna for Catarrh.



CONGRESSIONAL LIBRARY, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Hon. I. S. Smithmeyer, architect of the new Congressional Library of Washington, D. C., ranks first in his profession in this country. This library is considered the finest building in the United States. Mr. Smithmeyer spent sixteen years traveling in Europe working on the plans, and Congress appropriated six million dollars for this building.

In a letter written from Washington and dated July 4th, 1899, to The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O., Mr. Smithmeyer says the following in regard to Peruna, the world-renowned catarrh cure:

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 4, 1899.

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:

Gentlemen—I endorse the good opinion expressed by Senators and Representatives in Congress regarding the curative qualities of your compound. Those who have used it recommend it as an excellent tonic which is particularly effective as a cure for catarrh.

Respectfully,

I. S. Smithmeyer.

One of the most wonderful events in the history of medicine is the multitude of remarkable endorsements which Peruna is receiving as a catarrh cure from men and women of national importance. During the past two years a large number of people well known from ocean to ocean, have in glowing words of unstinted praise made Peruna the most famous and justly celebrated catarrh remedy in the world.

Men high in our national councils, statesmen known the world over, distinguished officers in the army and navy, physicians, lawyers, preachers, and last but not least, an innumerable company of people in the common walks of life, have all joined to place Peruna on the highest pedestal of honor that any remedy has ever reached in the history of medicine.

There can be no further question that Peruna is the catarrh remedy of the age. It has no rival. There are no substitutes. Peruna stands alone as a systemic catarrh cure which will cure catarrh in all phases and stages.

Everybody should have a copy of Dr. Hartman's latest book on catarrh. Sent free by The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

ONLY A LITTLE INCIDENT.

But it Meant a Great Deal to a Worried Woman.

The Pennsylvania railroad company is a great corporation, but great as it is, and crowded for time as its trains are when waiting at stations, its employes prove themselves accommodating men to the traveling public. This was demonstrated Wednesday morning in Lock Haven, when Erie mail came in says the Democrat of that city. A lady with 4 children alighted from the trolley car at Henderson street. She wanted to go to Karthaus, where she expected to meet her husband. If she couldn't make the train then at the station, she would have to wait until Thursday morning to make connections with the branch road to Karthaus. She was not used to traveling. When she saw that the train was at the station; when she recalled the fact that she had her tickets to purchase, and when she found that she couldn't make her children walk very fast from Henderson street to the station, she became excited. A gentleman saw the plight she was in, and he hurriedly informed the conductor. The conductor who was about ready to start the train, took in the situation at a glance. He called a brakeman, and directed him to relieve the mother of her children; then called the baggage agent and requested him to look up the trunk, as the woman did not know where it was. A few minutes later when the lady came out of the waiting room with her ticket, the baggage man was ready with the check. The woman was then escorted to the train and there she found her children already in the coach with the brakeman standing guard over them. The conductor started the train, without, we suppose, giving any more thought to the incident, but the kindness he showed in relieving the woman of the anxiety of mind when troubled with the fears about her children, trunk, and probable chances of missing that train, and the ease and speed with which he looked after all the little details, can only be appreciated by those who have been in a state of worriment when hurrying to make a train in a strange city. It also shows (although the head officials may never hear of it), how a great corporation, through its employes can act in the capacity of "a friend in need is a friend indeed."

Flour for the Army.

One of the largest contracts for flour ever awarded by any government has been given to a Philadelphia firm by the Commissary Department of the Army. One thousand freight cars will be required to carry the flour from Philadelphia to New York where it is to be delivered. There will be twenty-five trains when the cars are make up. The contract calls for the delivery of 150,000 barrels of winter wheat flour. Each barrel will weigh 196 pounds, making a total of 29,400,000 pounds of flour. This contract was obtained in spite of the keenest competition. The price bid was $4.23 a barrel, or $634,500 for the entire number.

World's Longest Stairway.

The Philadelphia city hall contains the highest continuous stairway in the world, and tourists who have boasted of their muscular ability in climbing the stone steps of the Bunker Hill monument at Charlestown, the Washington monument or the monument to General Brock near Queenstown, Ontario, will tell their friends of their feat of ascending the 598 steps which lead from the seventh floor of the city hall to the landing about the feet of William Penn's statue. It extends from the seventh to the sixteenth floor and contains 598 steps of iron, arranged about a square central shaft, in which runs an electric elevator. To reach the tower stairway the climber may mount 245 granite stairs in the stairways at the northern end of the building, thus making a total climb of 743 steps.

Tower climbing is one of the fads of tourists. Hitherto the Bunker Hill monument, with its four hundred odd stone steps, and the Washington monument, which has a few more, have represented the acme of opportunity for tests of physical endurance in this country.—Philadelphia Press.

Remarkable Power.

A dear old lady was taken one day to a musical service in a Boston church. She had heard much about the fine voice of the soprano and was prepared for a treat.

She sat in rapt enjoyment until the service was over and then turned a radiant face toward her escort, who was a young grandson.

"Dear boy," she said, "you've given me a great treat. Her voice is perfectly beautiful. It made cold chills run all up and down my spine."

"It's too bad, grandmamma," said the boy, "but she didn't sing today, though she was there. The gentleman next me says she's been suffering from a bad cold, and one of the chorus had to sing the solos for her."

"What, dear?" said the old lady, looking momentarily distressed. Then her face cleared, and she patted his arm reassuringly.

"Never you mind," she said. "We can come again some time. But, after all, if she can make me feel that way without singing I don't know that it would be wise for me to hear her. Now, would it?"—Youth's Companion.

HARKEN YE.

To the Voice of Bellefonte People.

If you will but listen to your friends and neighbors, they will tell you how the pains and aches of a bad back, the annoyance of urinary troubles, the nervousness, the restlessness that come from kidney ills can be relieved and cured. Read what one Bellefonte citizen says:

Mrs. J. Cowher of Bishop street, says: —"I was very bad with my back and head. I suffered pain, in both and was very restless nights besides being so tired all the time that I could hardly drag myself about. I was very lame across my kidneys and bending over or being on my feet much was extremely painful. Reading about Doan's Kidney Pills and seeing them so highly recommended for these troubles I procured them from F. Potts Green's drug store. They gave me positive relief, caused me to sleep well, stopped the pains, removed the lameness and invigorated me generally."

A PERSEVERING MONKEY.

Professor Garner's Story of Nellie and the Matchbox.

Monkeys are always happy if they have plenty to eat and something to play with. Professor R. L. Garner, in his "Apes and Monkeys," says that he recalls no investment which ever yielded a greater return in pleasure than a certain little pocket match safe, which cost 25 cents. He gave it to a little monkey, Nellie by name, after putting into it a small key to make it rattle and some bits of candy.

She rattled the box and found much pleasure in the noise. I showed her how to press the spring in order to open the box, but her little black fingers were not strong enough to release the spring.

However, she caught the idea and knew that the spring was the secret which held the box closed. When she found that she could not open it with her fingers, she tried it with her teeth. Failing in this, she turned to the wall, and, standing upright on the top of her cage, she took the box in both hands and struck the spring against the wall until the lid flew open.

She was perfectly delighted at the result, and for the hundredth time at least I closed the box for her to open it again.

The next time Nellie received the match safe she was in her cage, and through its meshes she could not reach the wall. She had nothing against which to strike the spring to force it open.

After looking around and striking the box several times against the wires of the cage, she discovered a block of wood about six inches square. She took this and mounted her perch. Balancing the block on the perch, she held it with the left foot, while with the right foot she clung to the perch. With her tail wound around the meshes of the cage to steady herself, she carefully adjusted the matchbox in such a manner as to protect her fingers from the blow. Then she struck the spring against the block of wood, and the lid flew open.

She fairly screamed with delight as she held up the box.

CAME IN TO BE HANGED.

A Story Told of Abel Erasmus, the Boer, and Lord Wolseley.

A good story is told of the old Boer, Abel Erasmus, and Lord Wolseley, then Sir Garnet Wolseley, in connection with the part Erasmus took in Wolseley's campaign in 1879 against Sekukuni, the chief of the Bapedis, on the borders of Swaziland. After the capture of Sekukuni he was immediately brought before Sir Garnet Wolseley, who asked him how he, a miserable Kaffir, living in a cave, dared to defy the great queen of England. The chief replied that he had been instigated to do so by Abel Erasmus.

Sir Garnet in describing the scene at a public dinner given to him at Pretoria on his return from the campaign said that he wished there and then to let Abel Erasmus know that if ever he found that Erasmus had been inciting any chief to levy war against England and he was able to lay hands on him Abel Erasmus would hang as high as Haman.

A few days after the dinner Sir Henry Brackenbury, Sir Garnet's military secretary, was sitting in his office when a tall, bearded Boer entered and asked permission to speak with him.

"I am Abel Erasmus," he said, "and I have very important business to do here."

He explained that he had come to see Sir Garnet Wolseley, for he had heard that Sir Garnet had said that if he could lay hold of him he would hang him, and so he had come to be hanged. Sir Garnet was in the next room, and Sir Henry Brackenbury thought it would be advisable to consult him on the subject. Sir Garnet, however, happened to be too busy at the moment to see anybody, and Sir Henry after reflection persuaded his angry visitor to take his leave and allow the hanging to stand over for the time.

An Aldermanic Bull.

Some time ago a follower of one of the city aldermen cast covetous glances upon a desirable newsstand under the elevated railroad stairs. Straight he went to his friend, the alderman, and made known his wishes, which were that the news dealer should be evicted from the locality.

"All right, me boy; leave it to me," said the city father and began to pull wires. Finally he got an order directing the newsdealer to show cause why he should not get out, but that obstinate individual still remained. Then he drew up a formal complaint, which was duly laid before one of the judges. The complaint, after telling how the newsdealer had been ordered to leave and had not done so, concludes:

"And now we have to complain, your honor, that not only is this same stand still there, but the defendant has replaced it by a bigger one."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

The late Sir Frederick Gore-Ouseley, professor of music at Oxford, was once going to call on a friend in London and asked a fellow musician the number in which he lived in a certain street.

"I don't know his number," answered the other, "but the note of his door scraper is C sharp."

Sir Frederick went off, contentedly kicking the door scrapers all down the street until he came to the right one, when he rang the bell and went in.—London Standard.

HORTICULTURE EXHIBIT.

Will Be One of the Principal Features of the Exposition.

Horticulture, viticulture and floriculture are linked together in one great class. In the midst of a country of orchards and vineyards the Pan-American Exposition will have abundant material close at hand and of the finest quality from which to make an exhibit worthy of the great event. The extensive floral decorations of the grounds constitute a rich display in floriculture, and several acres, including hundreds of beds, are devoted to the exhibits made by leading florists of the country. Flowers in profusion will welcome the earliest visitors and breathe out their fragrance and display their incomparable beauty the season through. Thousands of trees and shrubs flourish throughout the grounds. Double rows of thrifty trees surround the principal buildings. Foliage and flowers there will be in great profusion. In the horticultural embellishment of the grounds the Pan-American will far surpass the efforts of all former expositions.

In the handsome and commodious Horticultural Building all the popular fruits of the different countries represented in the Pan-American Exposition will be displayed. With a suitable refrigerating room upon the grounds, it will be possible for the management to make a daily fresh display of fruit. Throughout the term of the Exposition, when certain fruits are at their best, special displays will be made of certain varieties. The exhibit from southern California will be particularly large, and New York and other states will be represented befittingly. Bottled productions will also have a place here, the wine growers of the Chautauqua, central New York and Hudson river regions having applied for space for extensive exhibits. The opportunity for a timely display of choice native fruits will be improved. Dried and preserved fruits will be exhibited here. Articles and appliances used in horticulture will also be shown in this division.

The exhibits of nursery stock, including orchard and ornamental trees, shrubs and evergreens, will be unquestionably among the finest, if not the finest, ever made. The most prominent nurserymen in the country have interested themselves and will aim to outdo any former show of the kind. No less interest is taken by the leading florists, who are arranging exceptionally fine displays. Many large beds of flowers were planted some months ago, and they will aid in beautifying the scene from the early days of the Exposition.

The Maine Building.

The resources of the State of Maine will be exhibited at the Pan-American Exposition next summer in a building at once unique and appropriate. It will be circular in form, with projecting entrances, and the decorations will be typical of things in the Pine Tree State. The building will challenge the attention and win the admiration of every visitor to the Exposition.

The Colors of Eels.

The eel is very unpopular with many people; but, like many unpopular things, he improves with acquaintance. In form he is long, slender and graceful, in color dark green above and yellowish white below. Many believe that there are two distinct varieties, the salt and the fresh water eel, but I am inclined to think that, like all other fishes, the eel partakes much of the nature of his surroundings. A long summer vacation in a pond or brook renders him darker in color, and daily feasting on landlocked delicacies renders him more corpulent.

Just so codfish take on the color of their habitat, gray when on muddy bottom, bright red when living among kelps and gay colored marine plants. I believe, too, that the eel often forgets to return to salt water, but never breeds elsewhere, for I have never seen baby eels in brooks or ponds. I have known them to be taken every month in the year in the same localities. Some say that half the eels spend the winter in fresh water, coming down in the spring, and that the other half go up for the summer.

ELECTRIC SCIENCE.

Feature of Great Importance at the Pan-American.

Electricity and electrical appliances are to receive such attention as to make this one feature of the Pan-American Exposition of the greatest importance in the history of electrical development. In addition to the spectacular uses of electricity in illuminating buildings, towers, courts and fountains there will be very important demonstrations of the application of the force to many new purposes. Among them will be wireless telegraphy, the X rays, the electromobile, telegraphy to and from moving trains by induction, the improvements in the electric light and telephone. The wonderful labor saving qualities of electricity have revolutionized the production of many articles of merchandise within the past decade. This phase of employment of the electric fluid will form a most pleasant study for those who are interested in the newest of the sciences, and such a study as will only be possible at the Exposition. The development of electric power will be illustrated in a comprehensive manner.

Death of the Wife of One of Altoona's First Settlers.

Mrs. Rebecca Alloway, who with her husband, was probably the first settler in Altoona, died Sunday morning at her her home in that city, of a complication of diseases, incident to advanced age. Mrs. Alloway, whose maiden name was Rebecca McCune, was born in Woodbury, Bedford county, June 5, 1824, and has resided in Altoona since 1841. The house in which she died was erected by her husband, Abram Alloway, and is probably the oldest house now standing within the city limits. Her husband died April 2, 1863. These children survive: Wm. and Samuel, of Altoona; James, of Philadelphia; Mrs. John Alloway, Chicago; Mrs. Thos. Orr, Mrs. John Ebright and Mrs. W. C. Burtnet, Altoona. One brother, Samuel McCune, of Kansas, and one sister, Mrs. Nancy Moore, of Bald Eagle, also survive; also 32 grand-children and 18 great-grand-children.

Costly Modesty.

Mrs. Louis Null, of Winterset, Cambria county, was fatally burned Saturday. Mrs. Null's apron caught fire, and in her effort to extinguish the flames her hands were burned to a crisp and she was unable to remove her clothing. In terror Mrs. Null ran a quarter of a mile to a neighbor, who was working in a field, but as her clothing had nearly all burned off her, she retreated, going back to the house. There she tried to get into the springhouse, but the door was locked. Going half a mile away to where her husband was working, Mrs. Null arrived too late to save her life.

McAvinew Cases Settled.

The singular damage case which was to have been tried in the Lycoming county courts next week has been settled. Mrs. Mary McAvinew and her son Francis McAvinew had brought action against the New York Central Railroad company for $30,000 each for the death of Michael McAvinew, a fireman who was killed in a wreck on the Beech Creek district a year ago last February. The son who seeks damages is but seven months old, consequently he never saw his father. By the settlement they receive about $5,000.

An Exciting Chase.

On Tuesday, Dr. Geo. B. Klump and Paul Sheffer drove out to Marsh Creek to angle for trout. They noticed that there were forest fires in parts of the mountains, but quite a distance from where they left their horse and buggy. Towards evening a fierce gale came up, and they saw, from the stream, that a mountain fire prevailed in the direction of their conveyance. They wisely took alarm and started for the buggy, the fire making rapid strides in same direction. Waves of fire leaped through the dense undergrowth that at times rose high in the air. By the greatest effort they reached the poor animal when the roaring flames were within twenty-five feet of the tree where it was securely tied with a heavy rope and straps that it could not have broken, and the animal would most certainly have perished, and buggy been consumed had they arrived but a few minutes later. The animal realized its danger as it had pawed deep holes in the earth and was quivering with terror and fear, when they rescued it.—Centre Democrat.

From Fort Grant.

Sumner Miller, son of J. H. Miller, Rock Springs, who a year ago enlisted in the regular army as a member of Troop E, Fifth U. S. Cavalry, is now located at Fort Grant, Arizona, after spending some time with his troop in Porto Rico. He states that portion of Arizona is sparsely settled and that the Apache Indians often visit them from their reservation near by. He is connected with the commissary department of his cavalry and is delighted with army life.

—Captain Edgar S. Stayer, who was quartermaster of the Twenty-eighth U. S. volunteers, was given a warm reception upon his arrival home in Altoona Wednesday morning. He shares the opinion of others returning from the Philippines that the insurrection is rapidly drawing to a close. He speaks of our new possessions as rich in mineral, soil, timber and so on, and thinks it will prove a great place for capitalists to make money. All that is needed, he says, is American brains and energy. Captain Stayer, as noted in these columns, has been appointed a lieutenant in the regular army. He will shortly be ordered before a board for examination and after passing that ordeal will be commissioned and assigned to duty. Of course he does not know whether he will be returned to the Philippines or not. Captain Stayer is in excellent health.

ROLL CALL QUESTIONED.

Members Noted as Voting Who Were Not in the House.

PRESQUE ISLE BILL DEFEATED

After Explanations Had Been Made by Representatives the Vote by Which it Was Alleged to Have Passed Was Reconsidered.

DISPOSITION MADE OF OTHER BILLS

HARRISBURG, May 10.—A remarkable happening occurred in the House of Representatives yesterday morning, when a bill, which was defeated a week ago, afterwards reconsidered and finally passed, was found not to have received the needed number of votes required by the Constitution, although more than a sufficient number were recorded as having voted in its favor.

The measure, which has been called the Presque Isle bill, provided for the giving to the city of Erie of a large tract of land, which the supporters of the bill claimed would be utilized for the purpose of encouraging manufacturing interests. The opponents of the bill insisted, however, that the measure was intended to benefit politicians who own lands adjoining Presque Isle. Wednesday when on final passage the clerk announced to the Speaker that the bill had received 106 votes. An examination of the roll of the transcribing clerk later in the day showed but 104 names as having voted in the affirmative.

Insurgent leaders Corey, of Luzerne; Emery, of Venango; Johnson, of Union, and Mahan, of Luzerne, who had been active in endeavoring to defeat the bill, started an investigation to find out whose names had been recorded as having voted for the bill but who were not present when the bill was passed.

As a result of the investigation Representative Anderson, of Washington, yesterday, immediately after the chaplain's prayer, rose to a question of privilege and said: "I was not present when the Presque Isle bill was passed, yet I am recorded as having voted for it. I desire to ask that the journal to that extent be corrected."

Speaker Marshall read rule 71, to the effect that when the roll has been called and verified nothing further in the way of correction could be done.

Representative Paul, of Philadelphia, then claimed the attention of the Speaker and said: "How can a member ask for a correction of the roll when he is absent from the house when the roll is being verified?"

Speaker Marshall replied: "There are always members interested in a bill and it is for them to make objections. The clerk informs me that somebody answered to Mr. Anderson's name when it was called. The only evidence on such questions is the journal of the House and it shows that majority did vote for the bill."

Representative Coray, of Luzerne, called the attention of the Speaker to the fact that the journal had not been approved. Representative Hazelberth, of Allegheny, interrupted the conversation between the Speaker and Representative Coray by saying:

"I am recorded as having voted for that bill and I was not in the house at the time the vote was taken."

Representative Squibb, of Berks county, also addressing the chair said: "I was in Reading Wednesday, called home by sickness in my family. I was not present in the house, and yet I am recorded as having voted for the bill."

Representative Roch declared that he had voted nay on the bill, and the record of the vote on the bill showed him as having voted aye.

Mr. Coray then said: "The question before the House is a more important one than an observance of its rules. It is a constitutional question. I move the journal be not approved for the present. A roll call defeated Mr. Coray's motion by a vote of 78 to 73. The journal was then approved.

It was stated yesterday that the experts at work on the books of the bank will probably have a statement ready by Saturday next.

"The pitcher that goes often to the well is broken at last." There's a world of wisdom in that familiar proverb, and a sound application of it to disease, especially to such familiar forms of disease as coughs and colds. Singularly enough the very thing that ought to cause alarm is given as excuse for a feeling of safety. "It's nothing; only a cough. I've had it before." The fact that a cough recurs periodically should be warning enough to take it in time, for the most serious and disastrous of all maladies begins with a cough.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery not only stops the cough but cures the cause. It cures obstinate, deep-seated coughs, bronchitis, weak lungs, hemorrhages, diseases which if neglected or unskilfully treated find a fatal termination in consumption.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is no other medicine "just as good" for weak lungs.

"I was very sick indeed," writes Mrs. Mollie Jacobs, of Felton, Kent Co., Delaware, "and our family doctor said I had consumption. I thought I must die soon for I felt so bad. Had a bad cough, spit blood, was very short of breath, in fact could hardly get my breath at all some times. I had pains in my chest and right lung, also had dyspepsia. Before I took your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' I was so weak I could not sweep a room, and now I can do a small washing. I worked in the canning factory this fall, and I feel like a new person. I believe that the Lord and your medicine have saved my life. I was sick over two years. I took thirteen bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and four vials of Dr. Pierce's Pellets."

Report of Railroad Police.

War is making on the Pennsylvania railroad against illegal car riding. That it is successful is shown by the fact that in 6 months it has decreased 90 per cent. The number of arrests reported for the year by Chief of Police Geo. W. Vernes is 783 or more than 100 over the number of arrests for the year ending March 31. The charge upon which arrests were made by the Pennsylvania detectives were as follows: Trespass on trains, disorderly conduct, burglary, larceny, assault, setting fire to the company's property, malicious mischief, vagrancy, placing obstruction on the track, indecent exposure, gambling, carrying concealed weapons and intoxication. Four hundred and seventy-two of those arrests paid fines and costs amounting to $2,687.25, and 80 were discharged, while 5 were delivered to the authorities. The number held for court was 76, of whom disposition was made as follows: Not guilty 7; not guilty but pay the costs, 13; convicted 55; two were sent to the eastern penitentiary; 16 were sent to jail for terms ranging from 1 to 18 months; 6 were sent to the house of correction, 2 to the Huntingdon reformatory, and 2 to the New York State Industrial school.

Non-Resident Gunners.

Under the provisions of a bill signed by Governor Stone recently the residents of other states who come to Pennsylvania to hunt must pay for the privilege, if they do not own real estate in this state. The bill provides that a non-resident sport who comes to Pennsylvania to shoot our quail and wild turkeys and deer and woodcock and grouse and other game, must pay a license of $10, one half of which goes to the county and the other half to the state, and if the sports from other states neglect to take out this license and are caught gunning without, they are liable to a fine of $25, in default of which they will serve 25 days in jail. If a non-resident, however, owns real estate in this state, he may shoot all he wants to without taking out a license. The licenses are only good for one year and during the open hunting season,

WHAT IS SUCCESS.

Is it to worship earthly, groveling gold
And, dollar blinded, to look only down,
To rake the muck heap and forget the crown
Until Youth's bounding blood creeps strangely cold;
To dwell with envy, arrogance and dread,
To barter all benevolence for dross,
To lose companionship nor feel its loss
Because the flower of sympathy is dead,
Is that success?

To labor for the rainbow bubble, fame;
Afloat so fairly in the morning air,
A perfect jewel for a prince to wear,
Is it a recompense or all its claim?
Through careful night and crowded, strenuous day,
Through iron rebuff or flattery, like snow
That leaves one thirst, it is grasped, and lo,
It vanishes in nothingness away!
Is that success?

With comrades duey in the dark or day
To follow truth wherever it may lead,
To hate all meanness, cowardice or greed,
To look for beauty under common clay,
Our brothers' burden sharing when they weep
But, if we fall, to bear defeat alone;
To live in hearts that loved us when we're gone
Beyond the twilight (till the morning break) to sleep.
That is success!

—Ernest Neal Lyon in Success.

Exercise for Hoboes.

The pig iron cure for tramps is to be tried in the Erie county jail, there seeming to be no other way to get relief from the great number who have favored Erie with their patronage. There are nearly always from forty to fifty tramps in the jail to be taken care of at the public's expense. Eighteen were sent in from the mayor's court in one day. The authorities naturally want to get rid of them, and the county commissioners have bought several tons of pig iron, which the tramps will be required to carry or go without food. One gang will cart the iron from one side of the yard to the other and another gang will cart it back again, and they will be required to put in a full day's work. As this labor will produce nothing to be sold in the market, it cannot be objected to as most prison labor is by the labor unions.

Improvements at the Match Factory.

Since the recent fire at the plant of the Penn'a Match company, at this place, the company have installed a new system for the automatic extinguishing of fires. The entire plant is fitted up with a system of water pipes that have about 2,500 sprinklers attached so as to reach any point in the building. In case of fire, at a slight increase in temperature, wax or composition plugs melt which automatically releases the flow of water in a quantity that will extinguish any probable fire that may arise. The system is also being put in the new factory, formerly used as a flouring mill. The machinery is rapidly being placed in the new plant and they expect to have it in operation by the first of this coming July. In this department they will manufacture a different kind of a match and are putting in German and Sweedish machinery for the same.

Part of the old factory is now running at night, on account of the temperature of the day interfering with the handling of the matches. They report an abundance of orders, and everything seems to be prosperous about the large plant.

The thorough manner in which the large number of persons connected with the performance are being drilled, promises success, and we are sure large audiences will be present each night. The opera is described as a fantastic, dramatic spectacle with a well defined plot. The scene of which is thrown around the enchanted Isle, the North Pole, which is discovered by a Bellefonte astronomer who in order to reach the Pole safely drops from the moon in a parachute, to his great surprise discovers it already inhabited by immortals who are supposed to be Bellefonte people. The amusing situations that occur we are unable to describe but those that have had the good fortune to witness it elsewhere say, people who went to laugh, did laugh, and those laughed that rarely laughed before. The story is quaint and interesting set in frame work of dazzling scenery, surpassing transformations, beautiful music, magnificent costumes and wonderful electrical effects, Some of the scenery and costumes used in the New York production will be sent here.

That the opera has met the requirements and filled the bill is apparent from the very flattering notices received elsewhere.

The Pennyan Democrat says: the opera is full of catchy music and in its beautiful scenery and costumes it surpassed anything ever given here.

The Williamsport Grit says: The music loving people of Milton were entertained Thursday and Friday by one of the best musical extravaganzas that was ever given here. This is saying a good deal for Milton people have had a number of first class entertainments of that order by artists of no ordinary merit. But the audience Thursday almost went wild over the production of the "Man in the Moon" Never before has an entertainment of any character carried the people of this town so by storm.

No one who loves to attend entertainments pure in character and sweet in story can afford to miss it.

At Garman's opera house Friday and Saturday of this week. Admission, 15, 25, 35 and 50 cents.

Seats on sale at Parrish's drug store beginning at 9 o'clock this morning.

A Fish Story that is all Right.

One of the best fish stories that has come to us this season is the one we are about to relate, the truthfulness of which is vouched for by Rev. James P. Hughes, principal of the Bellefonte Academy. It seems that Monday afternoon the Academy base ball nine were limbering themselves up with a little practice at the Driving Park, John Mahaffey had the bat and was knocking out flies in great shape. Suddenly he batted a foul which sent the ball into the creek near by. He immediately ran, bat in hand, into the creek to recover the ball, but as he did so a large trout sprang out of the water after a fly and John, forgetting all about the ball he was after, struck the trout with his bat and stunned it so that he captured it easily.

The trout was a whopper, measuring 17 inches in length and John Mahaffey became the hero of the hour. It was served for breakfast at the Academy Tuesday morning.

A Building and Six Tons of Hay Burned

On Saturday afternoon a building owned by Frank McCoy and situated on the hillside west of the McCoy forge was destroyed by fire together with about six tons of hay stored in the building. The building, a dilapidated structure formerly a tenement house, was set on fire by three boys from Bellefonte who were on their way to fish in the Bald Eagle. The little rascals were discovered in the act and caught after a lively chase. They were brought before Mr. McCoy who gave them a severe lecture and on their promise doubtless to go and sin no more they were given their liberty.

He Wears the Belt.

Alum B. Steele, of Bellefonte, can justly boast that he wears the belt as the champion trout fisherman of this vicinity. He seems to know just where the speckled beauties lie for he has caught sixteen fine ones already this Spring. One of these trout he presented to Capt. Taylor and it made a meal for his whole family. Last Friday afternoon while fishing down below A. G. Morris' quarry along the Milesburg pike he caught the dandy of them all. It was a big Salmon trout and measured 18½ inches in length and was 5½ inches across the middle and weighed between 3½ and 3¾ pounds. Now beat that if you can, ye disciples of Isaac Walton.

Col. W. Fred Reynolds secured the trout and shipped it to his brother Samuel Reynolds at Lancaster.

A Birthday Anniversary.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN:

On Monday evening, 13th inst., the home of John Griffith, of Pleasant Gap, was the scene of a joyous gathering. Sixty odd persons, old folks, middle-aged folks and young maidens and men, rallied there to celebrate the 53rd anniversary of Mrs. Griffith's birthday. After an elegant supper, the guests spent the evening in such friendly greetings and cheerful chat that "the social hours, swift-winged, unnoticed, sped away."

Mrs. Mary T. Griffith was born, and has passed her entire life at Pleasant Gap. Her genial disposition, kind heart, generous hospitality and christian character have endeared her to a large circle of friends. It is their sincere wish and hope that she, like her venerable parents—Mr. Curtin Taylor and wife—may reach an old age, ripened and mellowed by cheering words and kind deeds to others.
